PIVF - Edition II

Peruvanam International Festival 2024 Edition II is celebrating the festival series - “International Literary Festival, International Book Festival, and International Folk Art Festival on the theme - the confluence of Letters, Arts, and Culture” on 5th, 6th and 7th Jan 2024.

The last edition of the festival initiated the process of creating spaces for dialogue on letters, sharing cultural experiences and watching new forms of art from different rural spaces based on the theme, the Migrated Letters, Arts & Culture.

The PIVF Edition II will explore the conversations on the confluence of Letters, Art and Culture. Authors, filmmakers, critics, activists, historians, social analysts and visual artists across the world will engage in literary conversations. The International Folk Festival in this series will include curated performances, lectures, dialogues and demonstrations. Performing art forms from different rural locales of the country will share their expressions. Collaborated outreach programs will engage students in different areas of art, knowledge, and literature.

Cordially inviting all of you to participate in the festival.

OUTREACH PROGRAMME

In collaboration with CNN Schools Cherpu

Calligraphy by: N. Bhattathiri

Jan 3rd 2024 CNN Boys School, Cherpu

Jan 4th 2024 Fine Arts College, Thrissur

Jan 5th 2024 CNN Girls School, Cherpu

Calligraphy is an art related to writing. It is an art using brush or sharp writing instruments to design and write words .In modern times, calligraphy is fine arts, and so, it is sometimes not directly legible. Traditional calligraphy is different from typography and non-classical handwriting, though a calligrapher may practise all these.

Children's Radio: Balakrishnan Koyyal

Jan 3rd 2024 CNN Boys School

Jan 5th 2024 CNN Girls School

Children’s Radio, at least for some people, sounds to be something of the past. But it is not true; the medium of radio is still alive and kicking. In all countries, including the developed ones, radio has reinvented itself in tune with the change in times and challenges. The digital revolution has made broadcasting technically simpler and more popular. That is where ‘Children’s Radio’ assume great relevance. It will discuss the history, relevance and technical aspects of radio apart from how to make programmes and broadcast them. The emphasis will be on practical, hands-on experience, involving young participants in all stages of the programme development.
